

MECHANICAL DESIGN SERVICES

> CONTACT US TODAY

As a respected mechanical engineering design company, we are able to provide first class mechanical design services to our clients. With our experience as a mechanical design service provider across many industry sectors, we are well placed to offer both Conceptual and Detail design solutions considering the best DfMA (Design for Manufacture and Assembly) considerations.

We deliver a high quality, cost effective engineering design partnership which will quickly increase your design resources and create extra capacity. Our ISO 9001 processes ensure our work is properly planned, delivered on time, and to budget. Developing a relationship with an external design team, which you know well, means you don't waste time continuously inducting on-site sub-contractors, or repeatedly explaining your products and systems to new design people. We are a well-established, highly flexible resource available at all stages of a project. We can expand and contract exactly when required, including provision of support during the manufacturing process.

To aid in the design and production of drawings Nova have invested in dedicated CAD packages designed for specific industries
